1. On 4 January 1950, Marshal Tito allegedly organized a special secret committee, comprised of Alexander Rankovic, Edvard Kardelj, Mosha Pijade, Milovan Djilas and General Popovic, to review the trustworthiness of all government employees up to Grade 5 or equal in rank.
2. The Secretariat Committee is composed of two high ranking UDB officers, one diplomatic UDB official, one military intelligence officer, one member of the Central Committee of the Yugoslav Communist Party and one Legation or Embassy (sic) counselor.
3. Employees' records and background will reportedly be carefully analyzed and those who are suspected will be placed under loose surveillance. The final decision in each case will be left to Tito. Kardelj recently issued an order that all Foreign Office employees married to foreigners will no longer be assigned abroad.
